LOL.

Someone gets caught cheating, apologizes, and attempts to justify things to himself by saying that we aren't taking the effort to "understand" them.

You see, you're just taking it without attempting to understand the depth of what I said.

"It was great pleasure meeting and getting to know and understand you guys at n00bstories. Unfortunately I am feeling that no one took the effort to get to know me and understand me."

I said I got to know and understand my online friends/acquaintance. But they do not, in on relevance to cheating or not. Cheating is cheating. Thing is, there are reasons as to why one would cheat. That, is what I'm talking about. That is what I was looking forward do having you guys understand.
