

---

Subject: Re: BEST. SONG. EVER!

Posted by Oblivion165 on Sat, 04 Aug 2007 01:06:37 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

That's what was great about it man! It really helps develop the mind outside of the Disney la-de-daa bull-hawky. I love the "worthless" song (as posted above). The only thing I would say that is slightly over done is the racial stereotypes. (Heavily jewish tape player, the only black vocalist in the worthless song is the reservation truck)

This movie is gold because it has a lot of dark comedy to it. Also I love the range of emotions the film brings out. The opening scene with blanket can make even a grown man cry but then with phil hartmans take as the air conditioner...it's impossible not to laugh.

It's just like the Boo Box in the movie Hook, watching that guy start to cry and that scream he lets out after he is told where he is going is priceless.

Link: <http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=TCx-M8dcDhk>

---