

---

Subject: Re: Disneyland Resort and Outside Bottled Water

Posted by z310 on Mon, 06 Aug 2007 19:25:54 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

puddle_splasher wrote on Mon, 06 August 2007 05:26z310 wrote on Mon, 06 August 2007 01:09

It was a horrible night. I should of taped a flask full of Bacardi 151 to my chest or something. The liquor would of loosened me up and made the trip somewhat decent.

Thats pathetic that you need various substances to "loosen up". What a waste of space you are.

Make your own enjoyment when sober and live to remember the joys of it for years to come.

As for the emotion thats talked about in the above comments!! You are as cold as ice in comparison to the sober ones behind you. They are living life to its fullest.

WTF were you on if its not alcohol? You look stoned and braindead. I bet you can only say....doh!!! I was on the ride.

I was sober.

And how does needing drugs to loosen up make me a waste of space?

The people behind me were in a group of fucking retards that couldn't mind space. They ran into me, and two other friends of mine 300+ fucking times. I was seriously going to deck one of them.

---