Subject: Re: The meaning of life?
Posted by Starbuzz on Sat, 11 Aug 2007 18:46:36 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

razorblade001 wrote on Sat, 11 August 2007 13:23Well what I have been saying so far is a generalization for ALL religions. But there is one specific religion that lets you do what ever the crap you want and get away with it. I have already said to much, I am not replying again.

Then why do you refuse to mention Islam? It's pretty obvious you were talking about Islam but yet you do not point it out. Your generalization of ALL religions with Islam is what is causing a needless argument here.

This is a Heated Discussions and Debates forum...you should feel free to say whatever you want.

You sure CANNOT generalize Chrisianity with Islam...but that is what you have been doing so far. True, religions have some connetion/similarities to each other but you failed to point out Islam in your arguments; a religion that has been twisted by some of its followers to include evil clauses.

Quote:
No, I don't think it would stop either.. but there would be much less taking place.

Do you not realize all the insane people that go around and kill "in the name of God?"

If Religion was to stop tomorrow and fall out of existence (Note I did not say never created) then it wouldn't have any negative effects on the world most of us live in.

True for Islam (i.e the most extremist of its followers; terrorists) but not applicable to Christianity, Buddhism, Judaism, and many others.