More detailed expiation on how to do this, once in the game push the esc button, then click options, then controls, then some other tab (can't think of its name at this second, and a different program is running that keeps renegade from starting) and then "Lock Camera to vehicle turret" this will not matter if it is server side or not, and even if you go into level editor and play with the options on the turrets and make them do it by default, the player can still over ride it through the options menu, or by pushing "V".
