This coming from a person who just bought a Dell and Mac.

Yes, I wouldn't buy a Dell desktop, however.

And I'd like to remind you that you've bought a POS from CyberpowerPC and bitched about it some time ago - we have yet to have any issues with our Dell products (only issue for me right now is that shipping of the laptop is delayed, you may have heard that Dell is facing somewhat frustrating manufacturing/assembling issues relating to the color lids.

I bought an iMac for various reasons (namely, the fact it was a great deal for the amount of money I was forking (ONLY 300 MORE THAN THE LAPTOP - 24" SCREEN, 500GB HARD DRIVE, FREE IPOD AND PRINTER THAN I CAN SELL, blah blah blah) - and the Inspiron will end up (in 4 years... Eh) costing me 2600 because I financed it with Dell (while I'm financing the iMac with my mom, lulz)), and I don't regret my choice as I waited to get the updated one, I think the laptop will outperform it in gaming-related tasks (G8600m GT vs. R 2600 HD) but in simple processing stuff, the desktop will be the best CPU in our house (2.8GHz Merom XE).

Speaking of which, iMac will be home within 6 hours, can't wait to start enjoying that dual 24" goodness.
