

---

Subject: Re: CnC Ammo

Posted by Fabian on Wed, 15 Aug 2007 02:48:30 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

I used to be download manager for C&C Ammo, under the name of SEAL.

Planet C&C said that we were pretty much a copy of them but smaller. To them, C&C Ammo was a pretty pointless addition to their site, so one day they gave us about three days notice and then shut us down. The site owner at the time, Roguey, was already 21 and had begun to lose interest in maintaining the site (even though at that point he did nothing and let his staff do all the work) and decided to not help us in backing up the site.

The staff was unable to organize and save all the files that we were hosting on fileplanet. A remake of the site was attempted soon thereafter at cncammo.net and commandnconquer.com but without the content we had before, it too was eventually shut down. A small bit of recovered content was handed over to Assassin at cncsource.

The only staff that I kept in touch with for any amount of time was Stryker, who I believe is in Iraq right now.

---