I'm not pointing to anyone, but I think once you get to a point where uselesss spam threads asking similar questions, and stupid responses with no base or proof or valid arguement are given, then they should be temp banned, these threads for example he's been making about viruses, all the same, we've helped him a million times and he wont take our help, then he goes off making threads saying we dont help, no one helps, and he is screwed, well his PC would be running at the speed of light if he read our tutorials and guides, people like this at a certain point should be punished so they learn to read and use a forum properly.
