Joey-YI only am disgusted with ACK due to he has flamed 3 of my friends repeatably...

So what? No one cares if anyone said something you didn't like to any of your friends. You hear about it, you suck it up, and move on... No reason in starting something over words. And that's just what is, just words.

Joey-YThat is why I flame and am against ACK. If he would just say sorry to all the people hese flamed, and stop flaming and being so negative twords orthers every other minute, I would shut up.

Be against someone all you want, but instead of going at it the way you are, you should just ignore those who you dislike and leave it at that. Nothing you say/do is going to make anyone change, and that's how it should be. What you do is live with it and move past it. The underlined statement in the quote above is what you should have done in the first place.
