
Subject: Re: LOL @ Angry Fanboys
Posted by AoBfrost on Thu, 13 Sep 2007 03:57:22 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

There are some downsides to the iphone but also some good sides

Just looking at it you can see it's a BIG phone, but then again, thats good because it has a BIG screen for movies/music.

But then again it's a phone, but then again because of it's size of screen, it is also good for playing media.

It doesnt have many buttons on it physically, but when texting it is 100x easier than normal cellphones where you hit the same key 3-4 times to get the letter you want.

So in 2 ways, the iphone is both good and bad, more good than bad, so i would reccomend this, but i myself would rather buy a LG phone, but then again if verizon wireless would use the iphone (they cant cause of GSM) i would consider the iphone, my family uses verizon and i support them because of their signal quality and customer support, at&t on the other hand has been failing and dropped the "least dropped calls" campaign, but still, at&t is still a good company, each company offers different plans that suit different taste, I guess mine is just with verizon, but I hate it that verizon only does samsing, motorola, and lg and thats about it, while others use several brands of phones.
