

---

Subject: Re: 9/11 Mystery Plane...WTH?

Posted by nikki6ixx on Thu, 13 Sep 2007 22:13:56 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

Starbuzz wrote on Thu, 13 September 2007 11:25

I agree...if you bring in bin Laden and the 19 hijackers, it just does not connect. Well, this mystery plane issue is kinda conspiratorial too.

Well it is the Doomsday plane. I'd expect it to hit the air in a time of crisis.

All this 9/11 bullshit pisses me off. Not because I lost family. Not because I lost friends. Not because I lost money. But because it goes against all reasoning and morality.

I'm upset that internet forums exist for the purpose of 9/11 conspiracy theories. That a set of people sign on to those forums and get their jollies, and fun from the deaths of innocent people, is just sad...

It confounds me that people actually believe that the United States Government would actually be able to pull this off. The country can't even produce a proper 'No-Fly' list for Chrissake. When was the last time the government did anything efficient? If the US Postal Service is any indication of how the government in the USA functions, I'd just give up now, run to Wyoming, grab a rifle and hide in a cave, and wait to be invaded by Canadians.

People actually somehow think that the US Government has managed to pull off this atrocity, and keep us out of the loop? Give me a break. You'd have to keep thousands of people quiet. The US Government isn't even capable of conducting a war... so how the hell would they go about covering up 9/11?

People claim that explosives were planted in the towers before-hand... I think any lay-person would NOTICE a bunch of construction dudes placing TNT into various locations of the buildings foundation. Regular people aren't that f*cking dumb!

September 11th was just a culmination of some greedy asshole, and his followers to promote their own Un-Islamic agenda.

---