I typed /names in chat and was paged by xwis three different names that belong to me.

I used v00d00's tool and changed my serial to another one.

Then went back to chat and typed /names again. I was paged the exact same previous three nick names. I don't think it pages you the names associated with the serial.

I think it has to be serial based. Last I knew, I had about four accounts, and I misplaced my jewel case with my serials (probably in my mess of a closet). Since my PC was reformatted recently and I wanted to play Renegade, I used my brother's (since he doesn't play anymore anyway). Using my account on an installation with his serial, I just checked the /names thing in the chat and it gave me quite a few names, none of which were mine and some I recognized as alternate accounts of his, so it's got to be serial based and not account linked.
