
Subject: Re: Why the US really wants to go to war with Iran

Posted by Oblivion165 on Thu, 25 Oct 2007 20:40:06 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Starbuzz wrote on Thu, 25 October 2007 16:25Sn1per74* wrote on Thu, 25 October 2007 15:13Oblivion165 wrote on Thu, 25 October 2007 12:38Well Bush will soon be out of office and hopefully the next person in charge will not allow this or recall it if the war was already in affect. Are you talking about a hypothetical war in Iran? Or are you speaking of Iraq? Because if we get out of Iraq the few thousands of soldiers that died would have died in vain. We need to stick with it, which we are doing as of right now.

Well, the thing is we also need to know if there ever will be peace in Iraq and if the strategy will work out. While it is important to finish what has been started and make the sacrifices of many mean something, we also have to bear in mind the reality of the situation.

I am skeptical of the possibility of a stable Iraq.

@ Sn1per74 - Was talking about the hypothetical war in Iran. Iraq has been there for 80 years and they were living by their means for that all that time without big johnny america telling them what to do.

@ StarBuzz and Sn1per74 - Everyone said the same thing about Vietnam but pulling out early was the best thing we could have done.. Everyone was bitching that we were leaving before the job was done but in the end their government settled their own crap and in reality our "Police Action" just made thing a hell of a lot worse.

EDIT:

KIRBY-098 wrote on Thu, 25 October 2007 16:31Surth wrote on Thu, 25 October 2007 21:17who says that you wont loose some 1000 more soldiers, if you stay?

We will. But that's their job and they volunteered for that exposure to the possibility of death to help others.

Thats very true but eventually they will run out of people from Alabama/Backwoods and they will start looking at us and a draft reinstatement.
