What I meant by "time out of my day" is that I don't want to spend hours searching the internet for some cheat that probably won't work, then spend another hour finding another one only to realize that I don't feel like playing anymore.

How do I, a random person from the internet, know that you don't have the willingness to spend 5 minutes looking for a cheat, and how do I, a random person from the internet, know that you're too lazy to download said cheat?
