

---

Subject: Re: Why the US really wants to go to war with Iran
Posted by cheesesoda on Mon, 29 Oct 2007 18:45:55 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

SSADMVR wrote on Mon, 29 October 2007 13:56 All I know is that US combat losses have been low, and I don't have some guy named Muhammed blowing my little girls up in the mall, the economy is strong and my quality of life is better than it was.

The US combat losses would have been lower without any war. The fact Muhammed is blowing anyone up has nothing to do with Bush, are you really that ignorant to think terrorists will fear Bush because of his war on terrorism? These guys blow themselves up to kill other people, they're not afraid of whatever Bush does or could do. The economy might have improved in the last 4 years, I'll give you that. However, the world economy has grown in the past 4 years so you have to put it in perspective making the economy growth in the US rather small. And it is going to get bad from now on, do you not see the idiot low worth of the Dollar? Do you not see the problems that is going to bring along with it? Do you not notice the loan-crisis?

You just admitted to being ignorant about what's going on with America. Why, then, reply thinking you know things that you admitted to NOT knowing?

---