But i quickly left when i learnt i can be banned from even there!

PCP would not even tell me his personnel opinion on my question

"Honestly please tell me do you think that it was "I" who haxed and not my brother with the same I.P"

All i got out of him was "i do not trust anyone"

LOL, i am not surprised by him saying that, as it seems all and any server host/admin/mod have no opinion and are just like little robots going straight the way to the dot of a big rule book or a "procedure"

Except SR, he's alright

You don't fucking get it do you?

Server administrators and/or moderators have their position because they are fair (to an extent) and care about their players.

If they let one person back in because s/he said his/her brother cheated and got them banned, they'd have to unban everyone since it's only fair. If they didn't, the pervious banned people would bitch and complain about it, and it would make them seem selfish and picky.

You need to understand. Whatever happens with your IP, on someone elses stuff, that you have no control over is your buisness. If you object to something like that, take it up with the person who has the ability to unban users, IE: admins or mods.

Users here have nothing to do with you, and therefore you don't really need to bring it here in the first place. So, just drop it now. It doesn't need to continue unless you really want to continue getting laughed at.
