You didn't get my point.

I clearly stated something so you wouldn't use it as your main point of argument, but you did it anyway.

This:

And this:

To clarify that last quote: Just because something is the "worst" of something, doesn't necessarily mean it is a bad thing.

For example, there are 3 Plasma Screen TVs. Each have the exact same functions and features. Except each is of its own size. The largest TV would be considered the Best, correct? And the smallest would be the worst.

They are all good things to have and they all accomplish the same task, except the small one is just the worst of the 3. Get what I mean?
