After giving it some thought I came up with a short list:

Why is there suffering, and not because of the human condition. But why is it allowed?

To get any answer at all would conclude there is an enlightened being, because only an enlightened being could answer. Confirming my belief.
The answer would also prove or disprove Bhuddism.

Am I a good person?

I believe I am a good person, but to be judged truthfully could potentially be life changing.

Who am I?

To be defined would be nice, to be given a higher sense of self.

After much thought, and this short list was cut down from allot of questions I came up with this.
And I am being honest.
What are the winning numbers for every single lottery from this day forth?
