My problem with everyone who makes consoles is

- a. they are too expensive, I remember when I bought my n64 for 100 dollars brand new.
- b. Games are too expensive, I mean 6 months later you see the games lowered to 20-30 dollars, why cant they do this at start, they still make money.

I used to always wait to buy a game, and I still do, but only big games I am willing to pay full price for, especially orange box, that coems out next week on the ps3.
