I prefer getting my reviews from G4TV, Xplay is very honest. Sometimes they do make a mistake, as in the NWN case. But they did make a new review covering the toolset side of NWN, but they were right about the offline game. The mistake they made was not looking at the toolset before they made their comments.

This guy did screw up with the tony hawk and zelda scores, and the company shouldn't have fired him, that is a PR nightmare. The company should have twisted the story so it looks like he made is comments on what they wanted, to let th fans think the company is still about them.
