I know that these big company's need to make profit and everything but it really really pisses me off when you HAVE to have a certain program to be able to do something but you have to pay for it.

Just making a reticle should be able to be done in Paint or another free default windows program.

But hell. What can i do?

Please. Try to pull the URL for the gimp....

But...even if i get the gimp the tutorial was made for doing the reticle in Photoshop.

I know there's a GIMP tutorial for something on RenHelp, and besides, the two programs shouldn't be much different if you can find the tools.
