That's quite lovely, really... But seeing as how you've likely never seen me playing, nor have I ever seen you playing, you're really just talking out of your ass. Since I'm stuck on a shitty network and probably won't have a better connection until this time next year, we really don't have any way to settle the matter one way or another. I suppose, though, that if it makes you happy to think that you're better, I've no right to deny you your fantasies.

However, if by some miracle I manage to get an internet connection that doesn't hate Ren before next fall, I'd be only too happy to demonstrate for you how to make the APC a valuable asset beyond rushing, since words will obviously never convince you of that.
