

---

Subject: Re: Finally burst 2gb cap

Posted by jonwil on Tue, 18 Dec 2007 01:25:20 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

TPGI is TPG Internet. I am paying $60 (AUS) right now and getting 1.5MBps speed with 18GB per month. And I do use a fair bit of that, mostly with large SDKs and compilers and programming crap (plus other large files). I then pay extra for the phone to Telstra (which I dont use all that much) on top of that.

In any case, my experience with Optus is that they are a rip-off even WITH the bundling. (in fact, I hate their rip-off prices so much that they are on my "list of companies I will never buy stuff from") You could probably find a better broadband plan with someone else and then get phone through whoever has it cheap (or if you use the phone a lot, go for VoIP with someone like TPG or Engin and save even more money)

Oh and if your exchange has ADSL2+, you can get even better deals

---