
Subject: Re: Is it possible to play Renegade on the Mac?

Posted by Starbuzz on Wed, 19 Dec 2007 16:33:17 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Ethel wrote on Wed, 19 December 2007 09:53 Who said anything about money? Nah, I'm kidding. If you don't feel like spending the money then get an XP/Vista disc and use Bootcamp instead.

Yeah, I think that seems to be the solution. I can't spend any money right now on this because I am saving it all to buy a good computer in a few months time to keep up with today's games.

Anyway, this solves my problem. I think I will get Bootcamp and yes, I already have my own copy of Win XP and Vista. But I prefer XP for this.

Thank you Ethel and Lone for your great help!

IMPORTANT NEW QUESTION! Please READ!

I am writing it here so I don't need to create a new topic.

OK, as some of you may know, my Renegade laptop fell and the hard disk was completely damaged. I get the blue screen at the XP load screen. This was 5 weeks ago and I have not been playing Renegade online since then....which is why I wanted to play on the Mac.

Anyway, ALL my Renegade files, skins, and even other documents were all lost. The data is gone.

So now I am going to install Renegade on my Mac. My question is will all my nicks "Starbuzz" and others show up in this new Renegade?

I hope it does. I think it should because it is registered at XWIS no?