What he posted for was information that would lead him to the server in question. He posted here because he is part of the Renegade community, and people here occasionally play other games besides Renegade. It's a long shot, but maybe someone here could have played on the same server recently and remembered more than him.

Also, this IS the off topic forum. If I'm not mistaken, anything (That isn't against the rules, of course) goes, amright?
