Muad please do not turn this topic into a argument about skins.

Shizzles man calm down just ignore it talk about it somewhere else.

PepPer the screen shoots counteract what you say.

I was there and to be honest there was not that much complaining going on, we just said all at the same time who was cheating.

Also it was not that hard to see he was cheating, the argument that he was killing everyone is not good enough as there are people who can juts headshot you on sight.

However when the map started erik instantly got killed about 2 seconds later "Map city" and I got hit but he did not kill me, we was both in our base and the map only just started so no he was not sniping.

On the argument that you need prof to ban someone on your server I completely agree, however I would also check with other server administrators to check if they have been banning on other servers.

Often people like that do not cheat on the server they play on the most so it is treatment to get them banned where they go for punishment otherwise they will just ban on another server, and often get better at hiding it.
