There were two issues, one on mp-gaming forums, where i thought i was having serious lag issues which in the end was debunked.

Then on the APB forums, where i posted accepting that my side of the line may not be up to par with US based servers. Thats why i posted with the question of why there are no other closer alternatives, which almost right away started with attacks and the bullying that followed. I never was rude or agressive until i was attacked, and even then i showed a certain degree of restraint.
