If you havn't tried any of these, I highly recommend you do. After trying Simply Orange, I've never bought any other kind of OJ. I recently tried Simply Apple, and it's the bomb as well.

It does cost a little more, but unlike most shit that costs more just because of the brand name, you can actually taste the difference.

... This has been a public service announcement...lol

If the OJ is grown in the US I'm all for it. If it's from china or some other poor country, I'm not going to drink hormone/poison orange juice.

Give me the country of orgin of the oranges, and i'll drink if it says grown in US.

Because the US NEVER uses hormones in their growth. Such tactics are obviously confined to China and other "poor" (Lol) countries.
