That's not how I would envision it working. Us having a say wouldn't be in necessarily who gets banned, but who are the moderators, the rules and the enforcement of the rules. Plus, it wouldn't be, "whoever wants a say in this vote donates money". It'd be more or less like a corporation. The more money (stock) you have into a corporation, the more say you have in the goals of the company and the board members.
