The difference is, stockholders OWN the company and have a financial interest in seeing it succeed (to see their investment in the company grow). This is just turning it to a plutocracy.

As Blazer said (I think it was him), if you have a suggestion, bring it up. If it's logical and fair, it will probably be done.

I seriously want to add like 3 or 4 more moderators but instead of putting it up to a vote I'm just going to choose them myself because it doesn't seem like my opinions on who can do it differ much from who the community would vote in and it takes a lot less time and arguing if I just pick them.
