Yeah->

   I heard C++ is mega complex super brainy stuff to understand and use.
 But at least it probably dont pump out so many bitchy errors!

 The wierd "end" expected near <eof> errors are annoying and a bit of an arse ache but the PERMISSION DENIED & FAILED TO OPEN FILE are just really ridiculous

Maybe i should drop all the LUA stuff altogether->?
 I have only been trying at it for 7 1/2 months(ish).
