A Star-Trek-esque utopia is getting further and further out of reach of our race every day.

Well, considering a Star-Trek-esque require the abandonment of a capitalist economy in favour of a "true" communist-style economy, I doubt it will ever be reached.

Note: Russia was not a "true" communist economy, it was state capitalist economy.

Well, what are we doing here, if not working toward Utopia?

Just commenting on the idea that Start Trek is a Utopia, yet the "average" American goes berserk at the thought of communism.
