I learn by doing, guessing and failing until I succeed, and any engine bugs that I find or anything else along the way, all the better.

I understand that, but he needs a lift, as he "seems" new to Renegade (obv), you learned C++ from a source, right? (Not trying to be offensive in anyway what-so-ever).

Correct, but keep in mind I was new to renegade at one point in time, and I didn't have the forums to come to (lack of internet), but I taught most of it my self. But it is true that having others help you probably accelerates the process about 6 fold.
