I definetly believe God exists in some form, but I don't quite think EVERY LITTLE THING that Christians usually believe are neccisarily right. I just know that there's a God, and probably some form of alternate afterlife if you wish to not be with God. Be it hell, or just plain void, I'm sure there's multiple planes of reality that we pass to after death.

It just seems to odd that our souls would simply dissappear.
