Um, so if EA is planning to release it "sometime soon" which they probably will/might (according to a EA employee himself), couldn't someone contact EA (crimson?) and ask them about this matter (privately is that the only way they will say anything), to ask if they really plan on doing what they eluded too, and if so, could it be only released to certain people? (BHS, BI, etc)

Because they might magically release it, they have no idea about this thread and they couldn't care less what happens as a result of it so..say something before they do something stupid.
