My animation project isn't started yet. I'm in the last week of my fourth quarter of school so my focus is on final projects including this massive perspective drawing session I have to finish before next Monday night, along with getting all of my work shot and digitized before each class ends.

When I get time to devote to storyboarding and laying out how I want the animation to flow, I'll start putting up concepts and then I'll work on the project itself... and no, I don't have any level files as far as I know. I think I lost all of them in some hard drive format long ago.
