

---

Subject: Carbons V3 Mod

Posted by warranto on Sun, 20 Jul 2003 03:39:21 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

Wow, thinkharder I don't even know where to begin... You ignorance is astounding.

Regarding the copyright thing...

Quote:How the hell can you prove you wrote it yourself in the first place if its not registered?

Having the original copy is how you prove it. I've had an exhausting night explaining things to others so I won't go into it much further. Unless I need to.

Quote:I dont respect the military more than any other organisation.

Why? Their are many organizations that deserve our respect. The more important ones being those that make our lives better such as research organizations. And yes even the military.

Quote:Anyway why the hell should we respect the military they are no different from anyone else they dont have any extra rights why should we respect them?

How about because they saved us from a life of oppression? ie. World War II. But oh wait...

Quote:In my lifetime, I am 18 btw not 10, the millitary, either US or UK or otherwise have not done ANYTHING for me what so ever. Until the people commanding the military learn some respect for us, the public, then they can all go to hell, they dont have, or deserve, any more rights or respect or anything else over any other person on this planet.

Ever heard of history? Just because they haven't done anything in your lifetime (even there you're wrong, but anyways) I let you in on a little known thing... there was this gut named Hitler, that had world domination and ideals of a superior race on his mind. And he came very close to winning. The only reason were not all speaking German and listening to the "superior" blonde headed-blue eyed people is because the military was there to step in. (I didn't mean any offence to the German race, I was just explaining what could have happened)

Quote:If the leaders of this world did thier job properly then we wouldnt need a millitary to pursue wars that really dont have anything to do with them.

I must admit, I like your view of the world. Everyone is good, and their is no evil. However, this is reality. Diplomacy won't always work with everyone, and thats been proven in the past. You may let an invading country walk in while your government berates them, but it isn't stopping the leader of the opposing country from sending the m,ilitary if he wants your land.

Quote:and as for the US military can fuck right off, until they learn to shoot in a str8 line AT THE ENEMY and not themselves or Allies then they can go to hell

Umm, please give me an example of how this happens. I don't mean the odd example, I mean the fact that they hit allies every day, all the time. Sure accidents happen, but the unfortunate thing about humans is that we're not perfect. In any war a country has been responsible for some sort of friendly fire incident at one time or another. The UK, the US, et cetera.

Quote:Everyone is entitled to an opinion and thats just mine, just because you dont agree with it doesnt mean that you have get so abusive.

True, everyone is entitled to their opinion, but if someones opinion is based on ignorance, then others will always be there to correct them.

---