1. You really should put more time into making your posts understandable
  2. As explained in readme.txt, there's an option in brenbot.cfg to oblige every moderator to use the !auth function. You can put this off but then people will be able to join with a moderator's nickname potentially. Check the readme.txt again for more info on how to use the auth system.
  2. Do you run renguard on the same network as you run renegade from? If so, renguard won't recognise you (but it will work perfectly for everyone else).
