Most of my time (and the year and the next) I spend on studying. I am working on my A+ certification now...I am going to the exam the last week of this month or the first week of next month. Then the Network+ certification and then I am tackling the MCSE. I put a hold on my college degree till I am done with these but I am confident.

Then ofcourse, playing Renegade (with my new clanmates). Also, inline-skating with my buddy to keep fit. We plan to slice across the city (Philadelphia).

I also do computer related jobs for the neighborhood I live in now. I get lots of $$ that way. I sure hope more PC's breakdown this summer (unlike last summer) and people get viruses more so I can go fix them. lol

I also LOVE hiking/camping solo. It's been a while since I camped solo but I think I will do that a couple times this summer.

That's pretty much it. Studying...and then for fun, Renegade and sometimes skating/wandering the woods. That's pretty much my summer.
