
Subject: Re: kamuix dm

Posted by shkkf on Fri, 02 May 2008 12:38:14 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Perhaps to clear a few things up,

Kamuix is as most know a modified server. Unlike most regular servers one can find that almost everything has been altered from damage points, speed, ...

As a result if new players come to play there (be it the DM or AOW mode) they are either owned right away by the more experienced people of the server. Or they can hold there ground but find it strange how a light can a med (for example). As such most new players play a few games and then they leave ebcuase they don't know the server yet.

An example is the feature of having orca/apache on volcano, and a player accused me of cheating for having an orca (wich he said is not possible on this map) after that he left stating the entire server cheats. This is such an example of these people. Instead of learning something new they turn there back to it and think it's evil.

For the part of moderators:admins abusing there power? Well it is a known fact that arty/helckers sometimes does a !qkick this is becuase he hates people playing "noobish (whatever he calls noobish is everything he also does but anyway). This for instance is an action of an individual and not in name of the server. If a moderator would !qkick, !kick, !ban, !... he/she has a good reason for 99% of the time.

And that the mods there cheat? I would say no. They just have the exp and know how to (in most of the times -_-0) turn the map to there advantage.

And I'll stop typing now cause I could go on and on and on about this.

Greets
