The redneck bit was kinda sarcastical. The keyword was racist anyway. Could be any idiot thats good with a gun and thinks that he is doing the right thing due to his upbringing really. I am not syaing that there isn't such a risk with every president (or any politician for that matter), but I think that because their still is alot of racist residue left in the US Obama has a much higher likelihood.

Thats the problem with being a politician that brings on a big change/revolution. There will always be some wacko's who think your doing it wrong and theres always the chance one of them grabs a gun or something else to "fix" it.
