The problem is eroding social structure and values.

Turn from God and his instructions, and you of course have a mess.

Analogy: A manufacturer puts instructions into a package for a complex product you need to live each day.

He gives it to you free and promises results but you decide he doesn't know what he's talking about and since you can't see him, call him or prove the instructions are real or work you don't follow them because there must surely be a better faster way and you're clearly smart enough to figure this out.

You aren't going to get a good result, and your quality of life will suffer. Who's fault is it?
