Personally I wouldn't even try explaining the principles and nuances of MONOTHEISM (aka christianity, judaism and muslim)

Essentially it's the people who grow out and away from it, while maintaining their faith, that can cause problems. But it is in no way limited to.

Example time: The western world seems to have a harsh view of Muslims. But this is really because of cultural differences, religiously they take it alot more seriously but the actual core religions are very similar.
