

---

Subject: Re: 45% of Americans believe that humans did not evolve

Posted by warranto on Wed, 11 Jun 2008 15:43:04 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

Ryu wrote on Wed, 11 June 2008 09:18

God is almighty and powerful, ego follows after them two.

I question him so his only logical way to keep his ego is, Showing himself to the masses.

See to believe? more like See to save my ass.

But the real flaw is, Christians BELIEVE God created man kind, But why do a huge majority of Christians try and say it's a fact that god created us, I thought believing and fact were two different thing.

Now why would we kill god? if we killed God there is no God hence no Heaven, Don't try and tell me humans are that stupid!!

Believing and fact ARE two different things, however people on both sides of the "God argument" fail to notice that.

Why would we kill God?

Do a Google search on "New Testament" and you'll see why and how we killed him.

He came down, showed himself to us (as you are requesting he do), and we killed him (or at least his mortal form). Even then people do not believe.

If people won't believe what is right in front of their face, why should he bother to do it again anyway? He did what you asked him to do once already.

---