Ive read ATI has even more trouble (with drivers ingeneral) but more specifically with Vista. Well, you are using a desktop and HP wouldn't roll out a x64 laptop if all the drivers for it weren't supported, so im not worried about that. So compatibility is better than I thought it would be which is good to hear, but if you see a x64 download and a x86 one, which do you get?

x64 because it can take advantage of the performance upgrade?
