
Subject: Re: Who is getting Battlefield Bad Company?

Posted by gearbud on Thu, 03 Jul 2008 21:58:56 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Cabal8616 wrote on Fri, 27 June 2008 07:37: Wasn't that the game EA made that has that Korean MMORPG cash shop system where you can pay money for new weapons and stuff?

If so, I won't buy it. That just doesn't work for an FPS like that.

That's called Battlefield Heroes, and I for one are looking forward to that game over Bad Company. I realized that after playing a whole lot of graphically orgasmic games (Looking at you UT3), graphics/destructible this and that does not equate to a great game.

And that Korean MMORPG cash shop system is becoming increasingly more successful over smacking down $50 straight forward for a game you'll possibly get bored with within the first week (Again, UT3). After playing iiji Gunz, which uses that cash shop system, I got instantly hooked on it, albeit having the "wow, this game looks retarded and has bad graphics." I tried Gunz, and I love it, so I can only ask you to try Heroes since its FREE anyways, and make your judgement from there.

Oh, if you're referring to the "spend some money for a few premium weapons," then the guys at Sarcastic Gamer put up a boycott that ended that scheme.
