That's not the point. If someone uses my nickname to cheat on a server or to let's say verbally abuse some moderators on that server, then people will not know it isn't me. Especially people that are less involved in the community.

And i just timed it: it takes me exactly 20 seconds to join my favorite server via xwis (from desktop to in server). I'm sure that's not much slower than gamespy, cause gamespy needs you to load its adds; though it might be a bit slower than dc.
