Agreed with most here who think it might be pointless, etc.

Also agreed with those who like it, and have it.

Main reason i got it is because i'm due to be taking a hell of alot of train journeys in the very near future, so i need something to entertain me on these journeys. The ability to play games on this, is quite entertaining, and high res movies is also a huge plus for me.

Granted, the majority of contacts i also have on things like MSN, etc, but it's still nice to have, considering i haven't really had a phone much in the past, so no way to contact anyone. I wasn't really interested in buying any of the other phones, mainly because i don't like the slide out keypads, or the screen res is way to small, or it runs Windows, etc, so the iPhone interested me greatly.
