This is all over our news, and new things are coming out about it, most unverified by the RCMP. Some people say that there could have been cannibalistic acts too.

It was a very bad way to start my day when I flicked on the TV when I woke up, and heard about it.

Frankly, I don't think ethnicity matters at all. I figure that there's a good chance the suspect is likely schizophrenic, or suffers from a similar sickness.

I'm happy that they have him alive, as it'll help to give some closure, and we can find out why this person committed such acts. If he were shot by a witness, we would likely never know.
