Chuck Norris wrote on Sun, 03 August 2008 16:24 Since I remember being told that IF this happens, and the way they want, they'd be able to patch it at later times too (not just once), so it sounds like a good idea to me. Roll out a buf-fix/improvement patch first, and then the features patch second, and from there, whatever needs done as it comes up.

Yeah, that would be a good idea. If anyone wanted any new things added to the gameplay (such as new units, buildings, controls, ect.), they could be added in a sperate patch. I hope they do that
